Meet Our New Bishop

David Roller

Bishop Roller served for 17 years as a missionary to Mexico, then 10 years as the Latin America Area Director for Free Methodist World Missions. In July of 2007, he was elected a Free Methodist Bishop and oversees 11 annual conferences in the US (including our Pittsburgh Conference), the Free Methodist work in the United Kingdom and 5 Annual Conferences in Latin America.

A Message from the Bishop

Temporarily In Service

News Flash: You're not permanent. Not on earth, at least. In fact, you and I are aging fast (hopefully, you're aging faster than I). This should help us focus; to draw clearer pictures of the future, to draw a picture of church for our kids, to design it for our offspring.

I didn't, in fact, make up this idea: God did. When he made His bilateral agreement with Abram. He made promises for Abram's offspring. The promise was for Abram's seed. The promise looked waaay down the path.

Isn't it true that most Bible stories are stories about one generation's effects on the next? Think of Adam & Sons, Noah & Sons, the patriarchs (all children of a trans-generational vision), Hannah & Samuel, Saul & Jonathan, Naomi & Ruth, David & Solomon, etc.

I suspect church would be better if we were all trying to celebrate church for the next generation rather than for ourselves. Not only is it altruistic, but it's forward-thinking. It's generous to not design church for ourselves. We're only here temporarily. Let's design ministry keeping that in mind.

But we've sometimes worked at cross-purposes to what we really want. We've retained secondary church characteristics that are meaningful to us (I always tear up when we sing, "He Touched Me"), but sometimes we've forgotten to emphasize the core of the covenant with Jesus, fanatical followers living lives of radical obedience.

Design church for your kids and you'll be surprised that it meets your deepest desires. Give up "He Touched Me," so He can touch them.

LARGE CROWDS FOLLOWED HIM, AND HE HEALED THEM THERE.
